History of Building Construction

Ninth Annual CHS Annual Conference in collaboration with the Cambridge Faculty of Architecture
Queens' College, Cambridge, 1-3 April 2022

As in previous years the 2022 Annual Conference will be held in Queens' College, Cambridge and at this stage the committee invite abstracts on any aspect of construction history. The first day will be devoted to Timber and the Building Trades (see separate call). General papers will be limited to day 2 (Saturday). Possible subjects for this general call include:

Construction in the Ancient World	Roof structures and coverings
Roman Construction	Foundations
Building in the Middle Ages	History of Building services
Bridges	Fixings and joints
Arches, Vaults and Domes	Curtain walling and cladding
Stone construction	Glass and structural glazing
Steel construction	Plasters, Cements and mortars
Concrete construction	Railways and canals
Building Accounts and Contracts	Lightweight structures
Writing on Building Construction	Scaffolding, cranes and temporary works
Transmission of building technology	Prefabrication
Bricks and brick Construction	Long span structures
Terracotta and tiles	Development of structural theory
Guilds, labour relations and trade unions

Papers will not be accepted that do not address the history of construction but are simply descriptions of conservation projects or techniques. Nor will a paper be accepted that consists of modern structural calculations proving that a historic structure can stand up (which is self-evident). Papers on the development of structural calculations are, by contrast, perfectly acceptable.

Abstract submission

Abstracts should be 300-500 words long and should include the full names, academic affiliation or employer, a description of the subject proposed, the sources to be used, and where it fits within or how it relates to the current literature on the topic, together with address and email contact details. Submissions should be made to chs@aha.cam.ac.uk. The revised submission date for the abstracts is 29 November 2021.
